

Phebe Pratt

April 14, 1800 - Aug. 20, 1886

DEATH OF MRS. PRATT.

In the Village of Attica, Green County, Wis., Wednesday morning, April 21st, 1886, Mrs. Phebe Pratt, best known as "Grandma Pratt," fell asleep in Jesus. Aged 86 years and 7 days.

Fore period of seventy years the deceased had cherished a hope in Christ. Our departed mother gave her heart to the Savior in the days of her youth, and through her long and useful life she always gave bright evidence of the power of God to pardon sins, and when the last stroke of time brings the glad day of redemption, this dear one will, be among the blood-washed throng that John saw in vision, by whom it was said, "Therefore are they before the throne of God and serve Him day and night in His temple." She met the last enemy, death, composedly and with calm resignation to the Divine will.

Mrs. Pratt was the mother of four children, who having left her in her declining years, she more firmly put her trust in the promises of God and reposed in the strong arm of His protection. The good people of Attica and vicinity kindly administered to her temporal wants, for which she was indeed thankful. - Her memory will ever be cherished by her friends.

Eld. E. J. Meredith addressed a large congregation (of which there was no kindred of the deceased present) from the 116 chapter of Psalms, verse 15: "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his Saints," showing the difference between the Godly and the ungodly, and the importance of living a life in Christ Jesus, which was ably set forth in his sermon.

NOTE: Nee Spencer. Wife of Wheeler Pratt. Interred in the Attica cemetery.